Zotero: Organizing Your Research
Research writing is more effective when you take an active approach to organizing your sources as you read. Zotero is a web-based research management tool to save and organize references. With RefWorks, you create a personal library. Zotero functions with Microsoft Word and other word processors to create footnotes, citations, and a bibliography for your paper, formatted to the correct style (MLA, APA, Chicago Style, etc.). Attendees will learn how to create an account, save and organize references, generate in-text citations and bibliographies, and collaborate with classmates and colleagues.
